.exe allows you to play the virtual instrument from the Windows(R) operating system as if you were playing an actual guitar. The virtual instrument is a collection of 2,076 sample patches, which can be stored and loaded in the hard drive as you play them on the virtual instrument. The virtual instrument is preset-ready, so you don't need any additional customization to experience the Stratocaster(R) sound. To facilitate virtual guitar playing, StratRealStrat allows you to play/trigger/stop the virtual guitar with an appropriate mouse click, and to load/unload patches by selecting one or more loaded patches from the PatchBrowser window. The virtual instrument is best used in conjunction with 3rd party VST(R) plug-ins, VST effect(R) plug-ins, and VST instruments/effects(R), or in combination with another virtual instrument with a different sound. You may run the virtual instrument from within the Windows(R) operating system, or as a VST plug-in running within Windows(R), Mac OS(R), or Linux(R).
